

Schizophrenia

Alliance

Are you diagnosed with a schizophrenic disorder (or simply suspect you may have one) and need support? Maybe you are living with or otherwise know someone with a schizophrenic disorder and would like to share your experiences with and hear the experiences of others who can relate.

Schizophrenia is a serious mental health condition that affects the way a person thinks, acts, and feels. Those who live with it, either themselves diagnosed or someone in their life, shoulder a great burden. They often feel isolated, helpless and alone, but it does not have to be this way.

Schizophrenia Alliance is a self-help group founded in the Detroit area in 1985 and has since grown to have thousands of people participate in meetings in the United States and across the globe. Here in the Copper Country, this group meets every week to share and discuss personal experiences, struggles, coping mechanisms, treatments and other support resources.

You are not alone!
